DeeannaMarie Wallace, along with her husband, Randy, began foster parenting in 1979, when their birth sons were ages one and five. Since then, they have opened their home to over one hundred children and young ladies and have adopted nine children. Six of those children were adopted through the Washington and Hawaii state foster care systems, while three were adopted while they were missionaries in Japan.

Since 1997, the Wallaces have lived in Hawaii, where they have established HOPE INC (In The Name of Christ), a faith-based, licensed, non-profit foster care/adoption agency. HOPE INC recruits and trains families who choose to adopt abused and neglected children from the Hawaii Child Welfare System.
